Toward an Engaged Learning Model in Mathematics: Insights from the K-12 Perspective

Jenny Gibson

Rockingham County Public Schools

Abstract: As a former high school mathematics teacher and current K-12 mathematics coordinator for Rockingham County Public Schools, Jenny Gibson has been involved in all aspects of mathematics instruction from writing the mathematics curricula for K-12 mathematics instruction to offering professional development to teachers in the 24 schools in her division. She will share with us her experiences and background in mathematics education and her vision for how she might contribute to the departments mission.
